Originally from Barcelona, with specialized studies in the field of Humanities, I am passionate about exploring the great achievements that humans can accomplish. My academic background helps me with a unique perspective on human culture and society, which I leverage to identify innovative solutions and approaches to support my team effectively.

As someone deeply passionate about arts and cinema, I find great inspiration in exploring their diverse expressions. I firmly believe in the power of teamwork and am committed to collaborating in environments that foster synergy and collective creativity.
